LONDON: Some of the most iconic cocktails ever created are rooted in the English Cocktail scene. The American Bar located in the iconic Savoy Hotel being one of the most famous. This bar not only inspired generations of bartenders but also one of the very first in-depth cocktail books. The Savoy Cocktail book brought the first whispers of mixology to the masses. Its almost endless list of spirited combinations showed the world a new way to imbibe.

The Great Bell “Big Ben”
London, England

London, England
51.5074 N

THE BRAMBLE $16
Gin| Lemon Juice| Simple Syrup| Crème de Mûre

A modern classic. Created in 1984 by Dick Brandel. Mr. Brandel was one of the most renowned bartenders to ever come out of London.

THE HANKY PANKY $16
Gin| Sweet Vermouth| Fernet Branca

This classic cocktail was created by Ada "Coley" Coleman at the renowned London Savoy. This bitter aromatic libation owes its namesake to the black magic of Victorian England, not to be confused with the American expression for equally dark deeds.

BLOOD AND SAND $16
Scotch| Sweet Vermouth| Cherry Brandy| Fresh Orange Juice

A classic inspired by the Rudolph Valentino picture of the same name.
Paris: many believe this city is the cradle of creativity. Within its borders, mankind has found new ways to stretch the imagination, change the way others think and feel and produce eternal standards of the culinary world. It is no wonder that Paris has also contributed to some of the most memorable cocktails in the world.
French 75 $24
Gin | Fresh Lemon Juice | Champagne

This beverage may have as many creation stories as the number in its name. One of the best known names revolves around an artillery cannon that bears the same name. This cannon was said to be strong and powerful, with a smooth and gentle recoil.

The Boulevardier $17
Bourbon | Sweet Vermouth | Campari

This classic cocktail was created by Erskine Gwynne. She was a known writer who lived in Paris.

Scofflaw $17
Rye | Dry Vermouth | Fresh Lemon Juice | House Grenadine | Orange Bitters

A classic cocktail that was invented in Harr’s Bar in Paris.
Italy: A land known for food, wine and love. The Italian people put passion into everything they do, and their mixologists are no different.

One of the most-known spirits in the world, Campari, was invented in Novara, Italy in 1860 by Gaspare Campari. This beverage is the heart and soul of many of the cocktails calling Italy home.

The Colosseum
Rome, Italy

Rome, Italy
41.9028 N
12.4964 E
Aperol Spritz $16
Aperol| Prosecco| Club Soda

The Spritz was actually a Hungarian inspired beverage, but the Italians took it a step further adding this famous Italian bitter liquor.

Negroni $17
Gin| Sweet Vermouth| Campari

This cocktail was invented at the Caffe Giacosa in 1919. It was first crafted by Count Camillo Negroni and Fosco Scarselli.

L’Americano $15
Campari| Sweet Vermouth| Club Soda

This cocktail hails from the creator of Campari and his bar, Caffe Campari. Gaspare Campari invented this in the 1860’s.
New York, New York: The City that never sleeps. With the amount of historic bars to visit why would you?
AVIATION $17
Gin| Creme de Violette| Maraschino Liqueur| Fresh Lemon Juice

The recipe for this cocktail has a long history of debate amongst bartenders. The original recipe called for maraschino and creme de violette, but when the recipe was published the Creme de Violette was omitted, and so the battle began. Here at Quadrant we follow the original and use equal parts of both spirits.

The Avenue $16
Bourbon| Calvados| Passion Fruit| House Grenadine| Orange Blossom Water

Originally published in the pages of the “Cafe Royal Cocktail Book” in 1937, this robust yet floral cocktail balances hearty characteristics of Kentucky Bourbon, while bringing a tropical, exotic essence from passion fruit and orange blossom.

The Palm Beach Special $17
Gin| Sweet Vermouth| Fresh Grapefruit Juice

Crisp, Simple, Refreshing. This cocktail, rightfully named, has been a favorite from Florida to New York since its creation in the 1940’s.
NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA: THERE IS SIMPLY NO CITY LIKE IT.

OF ALL THE GEOGRAPHICAL CENTERS OF COCKTAIL CULTURE, THIS PARTICULAR CITY MAY CLING TO THAT TITLE THE MOST.
The Cognac Crusta $16
Cognac| Orange Liqueur | Fresh Lemon Juice | Angostura Bitters

Many believe that this is the first “serious” cocktail. There are varying stories to its invention, but the most popular is that it was created by Joseph Santina. Santina was a barman at “The Jewel of the South”. This beautiful beverage helped influence the creation of the Side Car.

The Sazerac $17
Rye | Absinthe | Sugar | Bitters

This cocktail might be as famous as new Orleans itself. This classic was invented in 1838 by Amedic Peychaud.

Corpse Reviver #2 $17
Gin | Orange Liqueur | Lillet Blanc | Absinthe | Fresh Lemon Juice

This is the more popular interpretation of a classic cocktail intended to be a cure for drinking a little too much the night before. Thankfully you don’t have to wait until morning to enjoy this classic.

Islands & Lowlands Whisky
Scotch Style Whisky

Islands & Lowlands: The Islands are unique when it comes to distilling whisky in Scotland. This is because not everyone considers this a separate region.

The Lowlands only have a few operating distilleries. This area is the flattest and most southern part of Scotland. These particular whiskies have the lightest body of all Scotch Whisky.

Blended Whisky
Scotch Style Whisky

Step 1 Malting: This step involves taking the grains and soaking them in water so they may germinate, thus turning into malt.

Step 2 Mashing: The grains are then ground up to form the “grist”. It is then transferred into a mash tun, where the grist soaks in hot water and is continuously stirred to pull the sugar for fermentation.

Step 3 Fermentation: This step is where yeast is added and feeds on the natural sugars which is converted to alcohol.

Step 4 Distillation: The alcohol is then heated and cooled. This process helps to remove the impurities.

Step 5 Aging: After distillation, the head and tails are removed. These parts are undrinkable. The Heart is then placed into barrels for aging.

Step 6 Blending & Bottling: The master blender then selects which styles and casks are ready to be blended and bottled for consumption.
Blended Whisky is very unique when compared to Scottish single malts. A Single Malt comes from one distillery, a blend can consist of up to forty different single malt whiskies, even combining different regions. Due to this blending technique, unique profiles can be created.

Irish Whiskey: What is Irish Whiskey and what makes it different from the whisky (notice no “e”) distilled by its neighbor to the northeast? The honest answer is that it is made in Ireland and that it is spelled with an “e.” However, there are a few methods that make some or most Irish whiskeys distinct. For example, some are pot stilled, which means they are made from mash that consists of both malted and unmalted barley, and most, but not all, Irish whiskeys are distilled three times. The most important part is that Irish Whiskey is a fantastic spirit. Below are some of our favorite “waters of life,” which is what Whiskey means in Gaelic.

Vodka: There is a great debate as to exactly where this spirit first originated. Some believe it came from Poland, while others believe it came from Russia. What we do know is that it is the most popular spirit in the world. Vodka accounts for 32% of distilled spirit sales worldwide.

Vodka is made by fermenting a distiller's choice of a variety of items such as grain, corn, grapes, quinoa, potatoes or even pears. The goal is to create an alcohol that is 95%. This high percentage removes impurities and is a key component in giving vodka a clean, neutral taste. It is then blended with pure water to bring it to 40% alcohol. This is why some of the oldest vodka distilleries are built on or near natural springs.

Tequila and Mezcal

Tequila: This spirit is made from the blue agave plant, pictured below. The leaves are stripped and what remains is a giant pit called the “Pina” in Spanish. The pit is then pressed to obtain the juice, which is then fermented to become tequila.

In order to be called Tequila, not only does it have to exclusively use the blue agave plant, but it also needs to be produced in the central Mexican state of Jalisco. Otherwise it is classified as a Mezcal.

The Mexican Government assigns each distillery a number which is then printed on each bottle. There are 132 distilleries in Jalisco. There are only a few distilleries that produce a single label. In fact, the majority produce tequila for multiple labels.

QUADRANT HOUSE SPICED RUM-15
Washington, D.C.

Our house spiced rum is a marriage of spices from around the world, slow dripped and aged in our own American oak barrels. A unique experience for seasoned rum drinkers and novices alike. Enjoy over ice or have our bar team create your favorite classic.
Sound-Aged Spirits

Sound-Aged Spirits: We may not be able to clone Father Time, but we can show you his younger brother and he looks just like him.

Whiskey has never been in more demand than it is now. The problem is, how can we make it faster? While other spirits like vodka or gin can be made in a few days, whiskey needs time.

Whiskey pulls its color and character from the time that it spends in barrels. Sometimes two years, sometimes 50. There are various practices and styles from all over the world, but the one thing they all need is time.

By using concentrated sound waves we are able to infuse characteristics of time into younger spirits. We mimic casks and their character by incorporating components of a barrel and then blasting them with concentrated sound waves. The finished product showcases taste characteristics of spirits that spend an extra 10-15 years in a cask, except we did it in the time it takes to watch your favorite television program.

THE PRESIDENTS

A LIST OF OUR AMERICAN LEADERS AND THE BEVERAGES THEY LOVED
GEORGE WASHINGTON

Anderson Vally Whiskey Stout- 10

The First President of the United States owned his own whiskey distillery and was a known fan of porter. Due to this, we believe he would have been a big fan of this Stout.

JOHN ADAMS

John Adams.

Hard Cider- 8

John Adams supposedly started each morning with a pint of cider.

THOMAS JEFFERSON

Chateau Figeac Bordeaux- 1600

President Jefferson loved French wines. He was quoted describing wine as "the true old man's milk and restorative cordial."

JAMES MADISON

Krug Brut 2000 NM- 600

President Madison considered the French bubbly wine his favorite beverage, but was known to drink in moderation as to truly enjoy it.
JAMES MONROE

James Monroe
Taittinger Comtes- 480

James Monroe loved Champagne so much that there is a possibility he used Congressional funds to purchase wine.

JOHN QUINCY ADAMS

J. Q. Adams
Maderia- 75

President Adams was an avid fan of this Spanish import. So much so that he was rumored to subject himself to blind taste tests of the wine.

ANDREW JACKSON

Andrew Jackson
Eagle Rare 17- 80

Chances are that if you were being entertained by President Jackson one evening there would be a whiskey in your hand.

MARTIN VAN BURAN

M. Van Buuren
Blantons- 18

President Van Buran enjoyed this American spirit so much that he earned the nickname “Blue Whiskey Van”.
President Harrison was a member of the Whig Party. During the campaign of 1840, he was described as “the log cabin and hard cider candidate.” This statement was made because of his humble beginnings and he was touted as a man of the common people.

John Tyler

The Ritz Champagne - 30

Known to be “very fond” of Champagne, we hope that President Tyler would also be proud of our very own label.

James K Polk

Quintessence- 200

President Polk was not known to be a big drinker, but when he did drink he enjoyed brandy. This rare spirit blends some of the world’s finest and oldest cognacs with the smoothness of Grand Marnier.

Zachary Taylor

Jack Daniels Single Barrel- 20

When someone first suggested that he run for President he replied, “Stop your nonsense and drink your whisky.”
Millard Fillmore

President Fillmore was not a drinker. However, he was known to enjoy a glass of maderia from time to time.

Franklin Pierce

Nolets Reserve Gin- 155

President Pierce was not known to be a fan of one particular spirit, but rather known for being a fan of all spirits. We feel he would have relished one of the world’s finest gins.

James Buchanan

Maderia - 75

President Buchanan was a lover of this wine.

Abraham Lincoln

Patient Cottat Sancerre - 14

President Lincoln rarely drank. Occasionally, he would have a glass of wine when entertaining at The White House.

Andrew Johnson

Sazerac 18y- 150

When President Johnson was the Vice President, he used whiskey to treat a cold before an important function. He may have overdone it just a bit. Hopefully it wasn’t as fine a whisky as the Sazerac 18 year.
During the Civil War there were some complaints to President Lincoln that the then General Grant drank too much whiskey. President Lincoln simply replied, “Well, I wish some of you would tell me the brand of whiskey that Grant drinks. I would like to send a barrel of it to my other Generals.”

Ruthrford B Hayes

El Dorado 15y- 15

First Lady Hayes did not allow any alcohol in The White House. The rumor was that staffers would sometimes sneak rum into some of the fruit punches for those that did not abstain from the alcohol.

James A Garfield

Sam Adams Lager- 8

President Garfield was known to be a beer lover, and not a fan of much else related to alcohol.

Chester A Arthur

Orin Swift Mercury Head Cabernet Sauvignon- 350

President Arthur enjoyed many wines and spirits. However, he was also the President during the Temperance movement. He was once asked to stop drinking and he responded, “Madam, I may be the President of the United States, but what I do with my private life is my own damned business!”
GROVER CLEVELAND

Budweiser Lager (to be ordered twice)- 8

President Cleveland had the honor of being America’s 22nd and 24th President. He drank beer almost exclusively. In fact he enjoyed it so much he and a friend made a pact to limit themselves to four beers a day.

BENJAMIN HARRISON

Green Tea- 6

President Harrison was our first completely dry President. He drank no alcohol but did enjoy tea.

WILLIAM MCKINLEY

The McKinley Delight- 17

During the time of his election one of the most popular drinks was the McKinley Delight. It consists of rye whiskey, sweet vermouth, cherry brandy and a hint of absinthe.

THEODORE ROOSEVELT

The Mint Julep- 17

President Roosevelt loved mint juleps. He would use fresh mint from The White House Garden. An avid sportsman, he would offer his favorite beverage as a reward to those that would play tennis with him.
President Taft was not a big drinker. When he did drink, it was mainly for celebratory purposes and champagne was his drink of choice.

President Wilson was quite the fan of scotch. In fact, his campaign song “Wilson! That’s All!” was taken from a popular whiskey brand at the time. We are quite certain President Wilson would have very much enjoyed this 35 year single malt.

President Harding happened to be President during prohibition. However, he was known to be fond of whiskey. This rare cask proof whiskey was probably pretty similar to what he snuck onto the golf course.

President Coolidge was actually a fan of Tokay Wine, which is a sweet Hungarian wine. However, we have chosen to have him represented by this popular drink that bears his name.
HERBERT HOOVER

Hangar One Vodka Martini- 17

President Hoover revered to the Prohibition as “The Noble Experiment.” When he was suffering from pneumonia at the age of 80, one of his final requests was for a good, dry martini.

FRANKLIN D ROOSEVELT

The Botanist Gin Martini- 18

President Roosevelt was the one who signed the Cullen-Harrison Act, which triggered the repeal to Prohibition. Known as being a martini lover, perhaps he celebrated with a fine gin martini such as this one.

HARRY S TRUMAN

Joseph A Magnus Reserve- 300

President Truman was known for enjoying “The Hard Stuff.” This particular spirit has been replicated from a found bottle that dated back to the early 1900’s.

DWIGHT D EISENHOWER

Johnnie Walker & Sons Odyssey- 300

President Eisenhower was a known Scotch lover. Later in life he was asked to limit his drinking, but when he did drink it was generally Scotch.
President Kennedy was known to enjoy a bevy of different cocktails, but no matter the trend this always remained one of his favorites.

President Johnson loved scotch. His preferred vessel to hold it in? A styrofoam cup.

President Nixon was a fan of rare and expensive wine, which he often drank at White House events. However, his guests didn’t always get to drink the same thing, even though they thought they might be.

It was not out of the question for President Ford to have a martini with his lunch. Sometimes, even two.
President Carter was not known for his drinking. However, when entertaining, he would enjoy a glass of white wine.

Before he was President, he had a long history of both working as an actor and serving as Governor for the state of California. When you spend that much time in this great state, you can’t help but fall for a great California wine.

President Bush wasn’t known as an avid drinker and would drink a bit of everything. Though one of his go-to drinks was a vodka martini.

President Clinton’s favorite drink is known to be a snake bite. This drink combines equal parts hard cider and stout beer.
George W Bush

Aqua Panna Bottled Water - 9

President Bush was well retired from drinking by the time he entered office.

Barack Obama

Blue Moon Wheat Beer - 8

President Obama was a well-known beer lover. The White House even created a special ale that uses the honey from hives found on the White House grounds.

Donald Trump

Diet Pepsi - 5

President Trump is known for never having a drink of alcohol. His favorite drink is said to be diet soda.
